Jutsu 道 means art or technique. The styles usually using jutsu as their suffix are more concerned with combat effectiveness as their goal. The difference between dō and jutsu can be seen as semantics. People sometimes argue over something like Judo or laido having decent martial applications.

Iaijutsu or laidō • Shinkan Ryū Kenpō

IAIDO - the way of the sword, is a martial art form that began as an off-shoot of kenjutsu. It was developed as a defensive method to counter surprise attacks and enemy raids in fifteenth and sixteenth century Japan. The purpose of iaido was to slay an opponent with one stroke of the sword immediately after unsheathing it.

Iaido will have a focus on kata (drills) and precision. Kenjutsu will have a more well-rounded set of skills that goes beyond just kata and gets into more general "this is how you fight with a sword". The Japanese military would train in Kenjutsu in WWII for the mental training and practicality of the technique (at least from what I understand).
